

select a qualified real estate agent

Buying a home represents one of the most significant personal and financial decisions you ever make. You want to make sure you have the best professional working for you during this process. In selecting a real estate professional, you want to make sure that this agent

- Represents your interests
- Provides properties for you to review that meet your requirements
- Understands current market conditions in order to provide you with the most up-to-date and meaningful advise when you are evaluating properties and writing an offer
- Possesses outstanding listening and negotiating skills
- Is attentive to the details of taking your transaction from offer acceptance to the close of escrow
- Can assist you in arranging financing, property inspections, contractors and title insurance
- Is easy to contact and promptly follows up with you on any questions